How to Calculate Your Basal Metabolic Rate

Your BMR (Basal Metabolic Rate) is the minimum number of calories your body burns to stay alive, whether you are a sedentary or active and it's different for everyone. These calories are the absolute minimum amount of energy your body burns, and includes all involuntary (independent of your own will) activities that your body does to stay alive such as digestion, respiration, circulation, removing waste products and regulating your body temperature.

Why You Need to Know your BMR

Knowing your BMR will help you with your goals, whether you want to lose weight, gain weight or maintain your current weight.

Calculate BMR for Women

Women:

$655 + (4.35 \times \text{weight in pounds}) + (4.7 \times \text{height in inches}) - (4.7 \times \text{age in years})$

example: You are the average American Women: 40 years old, height 5'4" and 150 pounds. First, convert your height into inches. 5'4" equals 64 inches. Now add your numbers to the equation below:

$$655 + (4.35 \times 150) + (4.7 \times 64) - (4.7 \times 40)$$

$$655 + 652.5 + 300.8 - 188 = 1420.3$$

YOUR BMR = 1420.3 CALORIES

Calculate BMR for Men

Men:

$66 + (6.23 \times \text{weight in pounds}) + (12.7 \times \text{height in inches}) - (6.8 \times \text{age in years})$

example: You are the average American Man: 40 years old, height 5'9" and 196 pounds. First, convert your height into inches. 5'9" equals 69 inches. Now add your numbers to the equation below:

$$66 + (6.23 \times 196) + (12.7 \times 69) - (6.8 \times 40)$$

$$66 + 1220.08 + 876.3 - 272 = 1891.38$$

YOUR BMR = 1891.4 CALORIES

BMR varies per individual and is influenced by physical activity. To calculate a more accurate BMR, add the calculations below based on your physical activity.

- Sedentary (do not exercise):  $\text{BMR} \times 1.2$
- Lightly active (light exercise/walking):  $\text{BMR} \times 1.375$
- Moderately active (moderate exercise 3-5 days of the week):  $\text{BMR} \times 1.55$
- Very active (moderate or vigorous exercise most days of the week):  $\text{BMR} \times 1.725$
- Extremely active (vigorous exercise every day and intense athletic training):  $\text{BMR} \times 1.9$

To lose weight, you need to create a calorie "deficit." For example, if you're trying to lose a pound—which equals 3500 calories—per week, you'll need to put out 500 more calories than you take in per day. This is easier than it sounds, though! Creating a 500-calorie deficit is as simple as swapping a regular soda for a glass of water and taking a brisk 2.5-mile walk.

Essential Weight Management Strategies

“Do something today that your future self will thank you for.”

Successful weight management is about changing how you eat—not just what you eat. For long-term success, you’ll need to set realistic goals, create healthy new habits, and find an eating plan that works for you and your family.

This isn’t just about losing weight—your kids are relying on you to give them a healthy start.

01 Set Realistic Weight Management Goals

Start by setting goals you can meet and sustain. For many of us, a realistic weight loss goal to start with is 1-2 lbs per week.

Drastic weight loss isn’t necessary for your health—even 3-5% weight loss can improve your health. Plus, it’s not how much weight you lose that matters most, it’s where you lose it from—that’s why PhysIQ™ Fat Burn targets belly fat. If you have an apple shape instead of a pear shape, you’re at higher risk for many health concerns.

To track your overall progress, measure your waist circumference weekly along with watching the scale. Your waist circumference is a better overall indicator of your success.

02 Exercise is Part of the Deal

PhysIQ helps you manage your weight, but exercise is mandatory if you want to preserve your lean body mass and lose the belly fat.

Ideally, you should make time for 30 minutes of exercise a day (5 days a week). But, we don’t all have that much time to start and that’s ok.

Starting with 15 minute sessions and increasing in 15 minutes intervals can make a huge difference. One of the best ways to get motivated is to wear a pedometer or Fitness Trackers and start tracking your steps.

Yes, walking counts as exercise. Aim for 10,000 steps per day to start and see where you can venture from there.

03 Use a 7-Day Jump Start

If you want to jump start your weight loss, start the first 7 days with cleansing foods, low carbohydrates, and up your protein intake.

During this first week, drink more water, eat leafy greens, and avoid alcohol, processed foods and sugar, diet soda and high sodium foods. This phase of your journey can consist largely of PhysIQ™ Protein Shake, lean meats, eggs, vegetables and healthy fats.

Many people find that their 7-Day Jump Start helps them lose several pounds quickly, reduces sugar and carbohydrate cravings and inspires them to keep going. Knocking a few notches off your belt in the first 7 days is a great way to get motivated for your journey back into health.

04 Get Rid of the Junk!

If you're serious about managing your weight, it's time to clean out your cabinets.

Clear out ALL of the unhealthy food and beverages—yes, even your secret stash. If the food isn't aligned with your goals, toss it!

The reality is, if the treats aren't around to eat when your cravings hit, you CAN'T eat them. If the junk food is in your kitchen it's easy to crumble, but if you have to drive all the way to the store to buy it, you give the cravings room to pass.

Trust us, even though it hurts at first, getting rid of the heavily processed and sugar-filled foods is worth it. They're not doing anyone any good.

05 Practice Portion Control

It's not what you eat, but how much you eat. Portion control is a vital practice when you're working to lose weight and keep it off.

But, you don't need to memorize a food list or carry around measuring cups to get a better handle on serving sizes. Use your hands to gauge the serving sizes of foods instead of trying to memorize complicated lists of ounces, cups, and tablespoons.

Use smaller plates and portion food from the stove to help control your portions more effectively.

06 Learn How to Stay Full

One of the biggest challenges you'll face when you get sincere about portion control is not feeling full after you're done eating.

That's because many of the foods you're eating are full of calories and not enough nutrition. To feel full after eating smaller portions, you need to learn to eat more foods that "stick to your ribs".

And sorry, that gooey, heavily processed mac and cheese doesn't count. That'll just stick to your lower intestine.

These types of food are high in protein, fiber, healthy fats, and are minimally processed. Focusing on these foods will help you feel full and help you master the game of portion control. Some of these foods are:

- PhysIQ™ Protein Shake
- High protein foods (lean meats like beef, chicken and turkey, cottage cheese, eggs).
- High fiber foods—especially those higher in soluble fiber such as steel cut oats, beans, lentils, flaxseeds and chia seeds. These foods also help lower LDL "lousy" cholesterol.
- Healthy fats like avocados, olive oil, coconut oil and nuts.
- Minimally processed grains like cracked wheat, brown rice and Quinoa.

07 Make Friends with Protein

Protein is one of your greatest allies in portion control and managing your weight. It makes you feel full faster and longer so you don't feel like you need to eat as much.

More importantly, getting enough protein and cutting carbohydrates helps you lose more weight by saving muscle mass. Your body needs to burn more calories to keep muscle mass than it does to store fat. Protein helps maintain and build calorie-burning muscle while keeping you full and satisfied longer in between meals.

If you don't get enough protein, you'll lose muscle mass, set yourself up for weight cycling (repeated loss and regain of body weight) and risk of gaining back all the fat you worked so hard to burn off.

08 How Much is Enough Protein?

Plan 20 grams of protein per meal for women and 35 grams for men. This translates into a 3oz cooked portion of protein (beef, chicken, turkey) for women and 5oz for men.

Portion control, remember?

That won't always be enough to make you feel full so use the PhysIQ Protein Shake to supplement your diet. It makes a great on-the-go, low calorie, high protein snack that keeps you full, longer.

09 Watch What You Drink

Ditch the pop, sports drinks, gigantic sugary smoothies and energy drinks—drink more water.

Staying hydrated is essential to balancing your natural weight management system and we consume too many empty calories through other drinks.

Everyone's body needs different amounts of water to stay hydrated, but a great universal starting point is 8 cups of water per day (64oz).

Make sure you space out your drinking through the day and don't drink all 64 ounces at once. Start drinking water early in the morning to feel more energized and get a head start on your hydration goal for the day.

10 Eat Mindfully & Stay in the Moment

Last but certainly not least, be aware of emotional, mindless eating.

"Comfort food" gets its name because eating makes us feel good. When we're upset, food quickly becomes an unhealthy crutch and being aware of why we eat is a big step toward managing our weight for the long run.

It helps to eat slowly, savor your food, and enjoy the company of others. A joyful dinner table and family meals help you manage your weight AND give your children a healthy start in life at the same time. Families that eat together, stay together!

PhysIQ Meal Planning Tips

“A goal without a plan is just a wish.”

Now that you’ve got some essential weight management strategies, create a plan to put the right food on the table and meet your goals.

01 Create a Menu Calendar

Your menu calendar is the cornerstone of eating healthy, losing weight, and getting fit.

Each week, take time to plan your meals on a calendar, write a shopping list, and pack your pantry with healthy foods.

Post your menu for the week on the refrigerator and get the family involved—they can give you ideas to fill in your calendar and make everyone happy.

02 Make it a Family & Community Affair

Engaging your family and friends in your menu planning gives you support and accountability—vital keys to reaching your goals.

It also makes it easier when everyone is on board with what’s for dinner. If you have a menu posted, no one can complain when they didn’t pitch in by telling you what they want.

Bring your friends into the mix by starting a community online or in-person, to share your success, motivate each other and trade menu planning tips.

03 Eat Differently at Different Times

Your digestion is more active in the middle of the day than it is at night. That’s why a good rule of thumb is to “Eat like a king in the morning and eat like a mouse at night.”

This way, your body can burn more calories while you’re awake rather than turning calories to fat while you sleep.

This guideline gives you a great tool for planning a menu. Start to plan bigger meals or foods that are harder to digest at lunch whenever you can and try not to eat large dinners.

04 Plan on 6-8 Servings of Non-Starchy Vegetables and 2 Servings of Fruit Per Day

This sounds hard to keep up with, but if you work it into your plan it’s easy. Gauging servings can be hard so just plan to fill ½ of your plate with vegetables for every meal.

Aim for 6-8 servings of brightly colored vegetables. Not all vegetables are created equal. Leafy green vegetables (like kale, broccoli, squash, etc) are rich in vitamins and minerals. Watch out for starchy vegetables (like potatoes, corn, peas, etc) because they convert to sugars quickly and are best in smaller doses.

Avocados are a great source of healthy fat and have great benefits. Women should only eat ½ an avocado per day, while men can have 1 full avocado per day.

Fresh fruits shine at breakfast, as a table centerpiece, and as desserts. Sneaking in a piece of dark chocolate (milk chocolate is overloaded with sugars) with your strawberries is okay.

MENU PLANNING IDEAS:

- Plan meals around activities for the week.
- Search the internet for new recipe ideas.
- Save money by selecting foods from the grocery ads for the week.
- Plan a crock pot meal for busy school nights.
- Cook 3-5 lbs of lean ground beef or turkey with garlic and onions. Freeze in 3 or more containers. For a quick meal, defrost to make casseroles, tacos or meaty spaghetti.
- Make a few meals to-go for hectic days.
- Keep bags of individually frozen chicken breasts in the freezer. Defrost in the microwave to grill or use for stir fries or casseroles.
- Prep veggies when you bring them home from the store.
- Plan a night for leftovers. Turn leftover meats, vegetables and starches into a tasty casserole or hearty soup.
- Prep foods the night before and have them oven-ready.
- Keep processed foods out of the house and out of sight.
- Use a colorful bowl of fresh fruit as the centerpiece on your table.

05 Get Breakfast Right

We've all heard that breakfast is the most important meal of the day.

It's true, but you can't just eat anything, what you eat is critically important. Take cold breakfast cereal for example.

The refined carbohydrates found in the majority of cold cereals don't stick with you for long, as much of the fiber has been removed, leaving you to feel hungry an hour later. Instead of cold cereal, eat a high protein breakfast like eggs and cottage cheese with fruit for a more satisfying meal that will stick with you for most of the morning.

06 Try PhysIQ Protein Shake for Breakfast

PhysIQ Protein Shake is your go-to for breakfast. Make a smoothie with 1 scoop of PhysIQ Protein powder, 1 cup skim milk (or milk-alternative), 1 cup frozen berries and flaxseed or chia seeds for fiber. Or, use PhysIQ Protein Shake mixed with water to supplement a mixed meal of whole grain and fruit with healthy protein.*

PROTEIN AMOUNTS:

- 1 Scoop PhysIQ Protein Shake- 12g Protein
- 1 Cup Skim Milk- 8.5g Protein
- 1 Cup Almond Milk- 1g Protein
- 1 Cup Coconut Milk- 1g Protein

\ For additional protein, increase PhysIQ Protein Shake to 2 scoops.*

07 Meals On the Go

On busy days we might not have time to sit down for lunch or dinner and that's something you can plan for.

Make a few meals you can take with you when the day gets the best of you. Your body will thank you for not having to skip a meal.

If you don't have anything planned, you still have PhysIQ Protein Shake to keep you going. Mix it with skim milk or a milk alternative and satisfy your hunger on the way to your next thing.

08 What About Snacks?

Smart snacking is an important part of sticking to your plan. We all get hungry in between meals and eating the right food is the key to snacking.

Fruits, nuts, veggies, and PhysIQ Protein Shake help you satisfy hunger and maintain your commitment to portion control throughout your day.

For a snack at work, keep a container of PhysIQ Protein Shake in your desk. Mix it with water, milk, or a milk alternative for a mid-morning or afternoon boost.

When we start to manage our weight, evenings come with cravings for sweets like ice cream. Make a great tasting PhysIQ Protein Shake to curb the cravings and help you change your evening snacking pattern. Use one of our many PHYSIQ PROTEIN SHAKE RECIPES available in our recipe section of this booklet.
